PHILIP M. KLUTZNICK

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

Philip M. Klutznick was nominated to be Secretary of Commerce by President Carter November 16, 1979, and confirmed by the United States Senate December 20, 1979. SWORN IN JAN 9, 1980

A prominent Chicago attorney and businessman, Mr. Klutznick has devoted much of his life to public service in both the domestic and international spheres. He has served in various Federal Government posts under seven Presidents.

Mr. Klutznick was a member of the U.S. delegations to the United Nations in 1975, 1961 and 1962.

From 1961 to 1963 he was U.S. representative with the rank of Ambassador to the United Nations Economic and Social Council. Mr. Klutznick served on several delegations to the General Assembly and became a leading advocate of increased assistance to developing nations. He also had responsibility for development problems in the Third World and the financial aspects of the United Nations system.

In the business world, Mr. Klutznick was associated primarily with real estate development. He founded and headed the Urban Investment and Development Company in Chicago, which is now a wholly owned subsidiary of the Aetna Life and Casualty Company. One of his best known real estate developments is the Chicago suburb of Park Forest, which grew to a population of 30,000. He also led the development of Chicago's Watertower Place, a 74-story building that contains the Ritz Carlton Hotel, 40 floors of condominium apartments, a seven-level shopping mall, offices, theaters, and restaurants. Overseas, he helped plan the construction in the 1950's of the industrial center and deep water port of Ashdod in Israel.

Mr. Klutznick was a limited partner of Salomon Brothers and a member of the boards of directors of the Continental Foreign Trade Bank of Geneva, the First Mark Corporation, the Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation of Milwaukee, and the Urban Investment and Development Company.

Mr. Klutznick has served many causes in the field of humanitarian and civic affairs. He was named by President Ford to membership on the President's Advisory Committee on Indo-Chinese Refugees that assisted in the resettlement in the United States of thousands of people fleeing Southeast Asia. He has been a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, and a trustee of the Eleanor Roosevelt Institute and the Adlai Stevenson Institute for International Affairs. In 1944-46, he was the commissioner of the Federal Public Housing Authority by appointment of President Roosevelt.

Long prominent in the Jewish community, Mr. Klutznick was president of the World Jewish Congress, chairman of the Institute of Jewish Policy Planning, and honorary international president of B'nai B'rith. He was a leader in supporting President Carter's initiatives that led to the peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Mr. Klutznick was born in Kansas City, Missouri, July 9, 1907. A business associate characterized his age at the time of his nomination to be Secretary of Commerce as "72 going on 50."

He did undergraduate work at the University of Kansas and the University of Nebraska, and received his law degree from Creighton University in Omaha in 1929. He has been awarded many honorary degrees.

Mr. Klutznick was a governor and senior director of the United Nations Association, and a member of the senior council and advisory committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and of the boards of Creighton University, Roosevelt University, and the Lyric Opera Company of Chicago. He also serves on the advisory committee of the School for Advanced International Studies of John Hopkins and on the executive committee of the U.S.-China Committee.

He is married to the former Ethel Riekes and they have five children and 12 grandchildren.

Luther H. Hodges was nominated by President Carter to serve as Deputy Secretary of Commerce on December 14, 1979. He was confirmed by the United States Senate on December 20, 1979.

As the second-ranking officer in the United States Department of Commerce, Mr. Hodges is involved with all Department agencies, including the International Trade Administration, the Bureau of the Census, the Maritime Administration, the National Bureau of Standards, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The Department's broad programs include industrial and economic development, the promotion of domestic and foreign commerce, economic affairs, maritime matters, patents and trademarks, minority business enterprise, scientific measurement, ocean and weather research, and telecommunications policy.

Hodges, 43, who has had an extensive career in banking and business, joined the Commerce Department as Under Secretary from Duke University, where he had been a professor of management in the Graduate School of Business Administration since 1978. The previous year he had been a candidate for the U.S. Senate from North Carolina.

Prior to that, he was associated with the North Carolina National Bank in Charlotte for 15 years, serving in a number of corporate capacities, the last being Chairman of the Board and member of the Executive Committee of the holding company. He assumed this position in 1974, having previously served since 1971 as Vice Chairman of the Bank's Board of Directors and Director of NCNB Corporation. He held a number of other positions as a banking executive with NCNB, both in Charlotte and Chapel Hill, beginning in 1962.

From 1961 to 1962 he was a research associate and instructor in corporate finance at the University of North Carolina's School of Business Administration in Chapel Hill.

Hodges graduated from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration with a Master's degree in business administration in 1961. He earned his bachelor of arts' degree in economics from the University of North Carolina in 1957.

He has taught at the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, and at Queens College in Charlotte. He is a member of the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina and Chairman of its Committee on University Governance. He also has been associated as a trustee and member of the executive committee of Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte.

He has been a director of a number of North Carolina corporations, including J.B. Ivey & Company, Burris Industries, Pic 'n Day Corporation, and Burlington Industries as well as serving as Director of the Research Triangle Foundation of North Carolina and the Business Foundation of North Carolina.

His civic community activities include serving as Director and Chairman of the Board in 1976 of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, President of the United Health Services of North Carolina in 1968, and Director of the North Carolina Symphony Society and Chairman in 1973 of its North Carolina Beaux Arts Ball. He is a founding Chairman of the Board and Director of the MDC, Inc. (formerly the North Carolina Manpower Development Corporation). He also was a member in 1970 of the State Government Reorganization Task Force.

Over

Hodges is the co-author of two books, Bank Marketing: Text and Cases (with Rollie Tillman, Jr.), published in 1968, and Financing Industrial Growth (with Joe S. Floyd, Jr.), published in 1962. He also has authored a number of papers ranging from urban development to business ethics.

He is the son of Luther H. Hodges who served as the 15th Secretary of Commerce from 1961 to 1965.

Hodges is married to the former Dorothy Duncan of Monroe, North Carolina. The couple have two children, Anne, 19, and Luther Hartwell III, 18.

COMMERCE AS A "PRODUCER" OF INFORMATION
OF INTEREST TO THE INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY

The attached two-page memorandum provides an idea of the type of information Commerce has been producing which is useful to the Intelligence Community.

In the near future Commerce will be in a position to make a contribution in several other areas:

- a. Information developed by the Office of Export Administration in the course of its licensing investigations. This can be provided only on a limited and tightly controlled basis.
- b. NTIS program for collection of foreign technical literature.
- c. Foreign Commercial Service reporting.

In addition, Commerce will be developing a more systematic way of providing memoranda of conversation by its officials with foreigners, trip reports on trips abroad, etc. available to the intelligence community.

Lastly, as Commerce's new Bureau of Industrial Economics, under the Chief Economist, builds up and develops its expertise in industrial sector analysis, it should be profitable for both Commerce and CIA's Office of Economic Research to consult more closely and possibly divide up some of the labor in their work on foreign industrial sectors.
